Nifty Technologies for Genealogical Research

This presentation will discuss and demonstrate VERY cool tools for genealogical analysis and documentation, including language translation tools, timelines, timelines with maps, genograms, mindmaps, and video capture tools. These tools are software applications and Web sites that allow the genealogist to organize, document, map, explore, and delve deeper into your family history.

Ron has given 250+ presentations internationally. He has authored three books, The Jews of Sing Sing, Wanted! U.S. Criminal Records and, most recently, Mind Maps for Genealogy.

In 2006 he appeared on the PBS special The Jewish Americans. In 2008 he won a Hackman Research Grant from the NY State Archives to continue his research on historical Jewish criminals of New York. Ron earned a B.S. in Engineering from Princeton University and an M.B.A. from the University of Chicago.

This presentation appeals to all genealogists who use technology in their ancestral research. It will be held from 1-3 in the meeting room upstairs at the Santa Cruz Public Library, 224 Church Street, Santa Cruz, CA.
