Using Social Media for Genealogical Research

This presentation will be exploring various different ways of getting research assistance using social media. It is a unique way of researching your ancestors and relatives “outside the box”.

Discussion includes what we can learn from different Facebook pages that allow free random access, visiting sites that will translate your foreign language information for free, and even finding living relatives! Sean will also give an overview of the Tina Brayton Collection that will be available on the GSSCC website in 2016.

Sean Conley has been a member of the GSSCC for over eight years now. He is a member of the Santa Cruz Old Timers, Native Sons of the Golden West, and has an M.B.A. from Golden Gate University and a B.S. in Economics from SCU. He has used online database technology for genealogical research for close to three decades. Sean has worked on a variety of research projects over the years and specializes in California and Ireland research. He lives in Santa Cruz County.

This presentation appeals to genealogists of all levels. It will be held from 1-3 in the meeting room upstairs at the Santa Cruz Public Library, 224 Church Street, Santa Cruz, CA.
